

Fall 2009 Speakers

12:15-1:15pm on Mondays in the MPC Seminar Room (50 Willey Hall)

- Sept 14: “Creating a National Data Enclave System for Health Data Resources”
Peter S. Meyer, National Center for Health Statistics
- Sept 21: “Latin American Immigrants in Spain and the United States: A Comparative Analysis from the American Community Survey of 2007 and the Encuesta de Inmigrantes of 2007”
Herbert S. Klein, Stanford University
- Sept 28: “Does It Matter Where You Live? Neighborhoods and Health”
Barbara Entwisle, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
- Oct 5: “Grazing, Goods and Girth: Determinants and Effects”
Daniel S. Hamermesh, University of Texas at Austin
- Oct 12: “Supercentenarians and the Theory of Heterogeneity”
James W. Vaupel, Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research
- Oct 19: “An Overview of Data Resources at the Minnesota Population Center”
Trent Alexander and Katie Genadek, Minnesota Population Center, University of Minnesota
- Oct 26: “Northern Coresidence across Generations: Northern Norway during the Last Part of the Nineteenth Century”
Hilde L. Jåstad, Minnesota Population Center visiting scholar from the Centre for Sámi Studies, University of Tromsø
- Nov 2: “Should Everyone Go to College?”
Eric Grodsky, Department of Sociology, University of Minnesota
- Nov 9: “Public and Private Schools in Nepal: A Comparative Perspective”
Uttam Sharma, Applied Economics, University of Minnesota
- Nov 16: “Historical Family Systems and the East-West Divide in Europe: Persistence of the Past or Persistence of Perspective?”
Mikolaj Szoltysek, Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research
- Nov 23: “New Zealand in the Early Stages of the Modern Health Transition”
Evan Roberts, History Programme, Victoria University of Wellington
- Dec 7: “Single Mothers and Minimum Wage”
Peter Brandon, Department of Sociology and Anthropology, Carleton College